

Dipl.-Ing. Michael Stadler

Manager & Consultant

„After many years of operational activity in the strategic and operational management I would like to contribute my expertise as a consultant.“

Education and professional background

I, (born 1963) worked extremely successful in various positions in a company. As an independent entrepreneur as well as employed manager.

Motivation

Thanks to my experience in sales and technology, I am well placed to judge which business models are viable for the future. I can help you to improve your company's processes and thus strengthen your company economically.

Special strengths

I was able to achieve positive results in different positions. This is explained by the special combination of technological know-how with expertise down to the last detail. My strategic decisions, coupled with the appropriate methodology and business management skills, contributed, among other things, to my professional success.

Consulting areas

- Drive and Transmission Technology
- Automation and Robotics
- Metalworking
- Machine Tools
- Mechanical Engineering

I can assess in detail which characteristics companies must have to survive in the future market and competitive environment. My NETWORK supports with all your questions!
